Meet Our Lawclerks

CALEB BENADUM

Caleb Benadum is one of many talented freelance lawyers. He's a University of Cincinnati law grad and spent nearly three years at a family-based immigration clinic in Ohio before moving to Switzerland where he currently works for the United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees. In addition to Switzerland, he's lived in Cambodia, South Africa, Botswana, and Holland and speaks four languages.

AN ATTORNEY FROM WISCONSIN WHO RECENTLY WORKED WITH CALEB SAID THAT HE EXCEEDED HER EXPECTATIONS!

WHY DID YOU BECOME A FREELANCE LAWYER WITH LAWCLERK?

I first became a freelancer because I was working at a nonprofit and the salary was low. I had to pay off those loans somehow! But now I work for the UNHCR as a consultant, so freelancing is a great way to increase my income and cover additional expenses, as well as stay sharp and get to engage with immigration law since I no longer directly practice with clients.

WHAT DOES A TYPICAL DAY LOOK LIKE FOR YOU AS A FREELANCE LAWCLERK?

I usually work on lawclerk projects, when I have one, before I go to work, from about 6 to 8, or so. Then I will do a couple hours after work, if I can. On a weekend, I'll usually tear through as much work as I can complete.

WHAT'S THE MOST INTERESTING PROJECT YOU HAVE COMPLETED SO FAR VIA LAWCLERK?

A memorandum on the immigration implications of two charged crimes for a criminal defense attorney. I really enjoy "cimmigration," which is the intersection of immigration law and criminal law. It's really unique and complicated.

WHY SHOULD BUSY ATTORNEYS USE LAWCLERK?

This is an easy question. You can literally bill out for our time. It will save you money and time, and you can take more clients. You get to focus on getting the clients and we do the background work. That's a great deal.
